What Happens Next

Our co-op takes membership applications at all times and keeps them on file for a minimum of six months. You can keep your application on file indefinitely by notifying us at six month intervals of your continuing interest in our co-op.

When a unit becomes available we initiate an interview process with applicants selected from our wait-list. The successful applicant will be contacted by our membership committee. At that point we initiate a verification of employment status and perform credit and reference checks. If the applicant is successful an offer of membership will be extended and the move-in process will begin.
